Version du 27/08/2026

Sedes turns property searching on its head: instead of scrolling through thousands of listings, you describe the property you are looking for once, and professionals come to you with offers that truly match.

Our conviction

Looking for a home takes time and a lot of energy for a result that is often disappointing: listings already sold, properties over budget, essential criteria ignored. We believe that the right information should come to you, at the right time, and that it should be brought by professionals who really know their area.

How it works

- You submit your search: budget, floor area, cities, number of rooms, outdoor space, energy class, and everything that matters to you.
- Partner professionals consult it and send you the properties from their portfolio that meet it.
- You stay in control: you review, you flag what interests you, and you alone decide when you are contacted.

For professionals

Sedes gives access to qualified searches, expressed directly by clients, with a matching engine that highlights the properties that are genuinely suitable. Less blind prospecting, more useful appointments.

Our commitments

- Transparency: the criteria are clear, the matches explained, the price estimates based on actual sales (DVF data).
- Respect for your data: your contact details are only passed on with your consent and are never resold.
- Openness: private individuals and agencies sit side by side on the same platform; purchase, rental, life annuity sale and rent-to-own all have their place there.
